ADDC2200 Approaches to Addiction Prevention and Early Intervention

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course introduces students to proactive, compassionate, and evidence-informed strategies for preventing substance use harm and intervening early across diverse populations. Grounded in trauma-informed, strengths-based, and equity-centered approaches, it explores upstream solutions that address social determinants, intergenerational trauma, and systemic inequities. Students examine core prevention models and explore how social, structural, and cultural factors shape patterns of substance use. This course recognizes the value of Indigenous knowledge systems, cultural teachings, and land-based healing practices in promoting wellness, prevention, and early intervention. Students are invited to reflect on the impacts of colonization, the importance of cultural safety, and the role of reconciliation in addressing substance use disparities. Frontiers such as online influences, grief literacy, policy advocacy, and exploratory approaches like psychedelic-assisted therapy are also explored as part of a broader vision for addiction prevention.

The terms that apply to a student's use of Turnitin are described on Turnitin.com.

Online Exam Proctoring:

Examinations for this course may require proctoring through an online proctoring service. Online proctoring enables online exam taking within a controlled and monitored environment, thereby enhancing academic integrity. Online proctoring may occur through a variety of methods, including but not limited to:

a. live online proctoring where either the course instructor, a representative of Bow Valley College, or a remote invigilator authenticates identity and observes completion of an exam using specialized software and recordings;
b. automated proctoring where the exam session is recorded and AI (artificial intelligence) analyzed;
c. browser lockdown that limits access to other applications, websites, copying, printing, screen capture and other functions; or
d. a combination of both live/automated proctoring and browser lockdown.

Course instructors will review recordings, analyses, and data obtained through online proctoring for academic integrity infractions. It is the student's responsibility to meet the technical, software, location, and identity verification requirements necessary to enable online proctoring.
